Improving race equality in the NHS

KEY FINDINGS FROM THE WORKFORCE RACE EQUALITY STANDARD (WRES) 2020 REPORT

21% of NHS staff are BME (273,359)

56,715 more BME staff in the NHS in 2020 than 2017

trust board members are BME [7% in 2019]

22.2% increase in BME board members since 2019

BME staff at very senior manager level increased by 9.2% 9.2% of staff in pay bands 8C and above are BME.

This is significantly lower than the 21% of BME staff working in the NHS

BME staff are

1.16 times more likely to enter a formal disciplinary process than white staff

30.3% of BME staff reported experiencing harassment, bullying or abuse from the public [28.4% in 2016]

White applicants are times more likely to be appointed from shortlisting than BME applicants (1.46 in 2019)

Taking action

ORGANISATIONS

Create an anti-racism strategy where racism is not tolerated. Respond quickly to complaints.

Tell your story. Explain why workforce race equality is so important for staff and patients.

Appoint a board lead for WRES and focus on equality of outcome.

Board lead to actively engage with staff groups such as BMF networks.

Use positive to encourage diverse Use positive action measures shortlisting and diverse appointment panels.

Commit to developing leaders from under-represented groups and link your discussions with your regional talent boards.

Create an independent panel to review all disciplinary cases beyond a first written warning before processing.

INDIVIDUALS

Speak up and challenge inappropriate behaviours via HR, your manager, equality lead, or freedom to speak up quardians.

Improve understanding of unconscious bias, white privilege and diversity of thought.

Attend internal training on equality, diversity and inclusion.

Challenge leaders for transparency around WRES action plans.

Add race equality, diversity and inclusion issues to meeting agendas.

Request the WRES data for your department, compare it to the wider organisation and other NHS trusts in your organisation.

Participate in a reverse mentoring programme.

Be curious and ask questions.

Access further information

